About 6SS

Founded in 2010 and headquartered in Minneapolis, 6SS is a global leader in intelligent video analytics and security management solutions. They serve customers across transportation, critical infrastructure and commercial markets with scalable, high-performance surveillance systems.

Their leading products (including Centaur, Federator, iMonitor, Medusa, and EyeWall) enable seamless integration with existing hardware and empower clients to transform raw video into actionable intelligence. 6SS platforms support both on-premises and cloud deployments, with rapid integration, flexible architecture and full compatibility with modern and legacy systems.

Backed by a global network of certified partners, 6SS offer end-to-end service from system design to installation, training and support. Their mission is to empower organisations to stay agile, detect threats early and optimise operational efficiency across their security infrastructure.

Partnership with Secure Logiq

The collaboration between 6SS and Secure Logiq brings together cutting-edge video-analytics software and purpose-built surveillance hardware: delivering robust, scalable solutions for even the most demanding environments.

Clients benefit from:

- Seamless integration into Secure Logiq's platform, minimising deployment effort
- Modular hardware platforms tailored to each site's needs
- Coordinated support workflows ensuring swift resolution and minimal downtime

Why 6SS & Secure Logiq?

This partnership offers:

- End-to-end deployment from edge devices to central command
- Flexibility across transport, critical infrastructure, and commercial sectors
- Real-time threat detection and intelligence for proactive security management

What Our Leaders Say

“Partnering with Secure Logiq has significantly enhanced our solution interoperability and accelerated deployment timelines.”

Managing Director, 6SS

Looking Ahead

At Secure Logiq, we're proud to partner with 6SS, a company known for its intelligent, scalable video analytics solutions. By combining their cutting-edge software with our highly configurable, security-optimised hardware platforms, we're able to deliver robust, flexible end-to-end systems for clients operating in demanding environments.

This collaboration allows for seamless deployment, from edge devices to central command, with tailored configurations that meet each site's specific performance and capacity needs. Thanks to our coordinated support teams and responsive service model, we're able to minimise downtime and accelerate resolution when it matters most.

Together with 6SS, we're helping customers turn raw video into actionable intelligence, detecting threats early and enhancing situational awareness across a wide range of sectors. We're also excited to support this partnership through our global reseller network, continuing to drive innovation and measurable value at every level.
